ABSTRACT

Systems, methodologies, media, and other embodiments associated charge rationing aware scheduling are provided. One exemplary system includes a scheduling logic configured to determine the charge rationing status of a processor, to examine properties of executables waiting to be executed on the processor, and to select an executable for execution

5   by the processor based on the charge rationing status of the processor and the properties of the executable.